Top 5 Top 5 Hybrid Cars for 2006

From Eric Powers,Your Guide to Hybrid Cars.FREE Newsletter. Sign Up Now!

Here is the list of the top 5 hybrid cars based on fuel efficiency. The first four beat all other cars, hybrid or non-hybrid. Only the last car on the list has other non-hybrid cars, that beat it.

1) Honda Insight \(5-speed manual transmission\)

The 2006 Honda Insight still beats everything else on the road when it comes to fuel economy. Still it's unique looks and 2-seat capacity doesn't fit everyone's needs. 60 city/66 hwyRead ReviewCompare Prices ▶

2) Honda Insight \(CVT transmission\)

Same as the 5-speed version, but this one doesn't require manual shifting. Instead the silky-smooth Continuously Variable transmission (CVT) handles the gears. 57 city/56 hwyRead ReviewCompare Prices ▶

3) Toyota Prius

The 2006 Prius is the latest version of Toyota's unique looking hybrid car. 60 city/51 hwyRead ReviewCompare Prices ▶

4) Honda Civic Hybrid

The Honda Civic Hybrid was completely redesigned for 2006. 2005 was the last year that a manual transmission was available. 50 city/50 hwyRead ReviewCompare Prices ▶

5) Honda Accord Hybrid

The Honda Accord Hybrid uses it's hybrid design more for power than fuel economy, so there are a few smaller, non-hybrid cars that beat it's mpg. But within its own category though, the 255 horsepower Accord Hybrid beats the fuel economy of all others except the Toyota Prius. 29 city/37 hwyRead ReviewCompare Prices ▶Important product disclaimer information about this About site.
